Appellation: Tarman Vineyard

Production: 325 cases

Tarman Ranch is located in the Dry Creek Appellation, a Cabernet Sauvignon growing region that screams boldness. The vineyard has some very old vines which produce some outstanding grapes; full tight grape clusters, marble in size and deep in color. You can't ask for better looking fruit. This wine goes through an extended maceration, meaning we let the grape skins sit on the juice long after the fermentation has finished. It completely extracts all of this wine's potential. This technique is designed to soften its tannin structure upfront without eliminating its ability for cellaring. The wine is full bodied with plenty of flavor to spare. The aroma is that of mushroom and forest floor. Enjoy this wine with some friends and a steak cooked to your liking.
